DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 4-6, 18, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Phillips (US006748195B1) in view of Yoshinaga (US006317582B1).

Per claims 1 and 18, Phillips discloses an input apparatus connectable to a plurality of devices (see figures 3), said apparatus comprising: display means for displaying a list of the plurality of connected devices (see figure 5-8, column 6, lines 27-42); selection means for selecting one of the plurality of devices based on the list displayed by said display means (see column 6 and lines 44-47) ; and operation means for operating the device selected by said selection means (see column 5 and lines 47-65). Phillips doesn't teach that said display means displays the list of the plurality of connected devices according to radio communication in different modes for the device capable of being operated by said operation means and other devices unable to be operated by said operation means. Yoshinaga teaches that display means displays the list of the plurality of connected devices according to radio communication in different modes for the device capable of being operated by said operation means and other devices unable to be operated by said operation means (see figure 1 and column 3 16-38, column 5 and lines 46-59). It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teaching of Yoshinaga with Phillips' device such that it is convenience for a user to observe and select one wireless connection mode among of all the available ones.

Per claims 4 and 5 Phillips further teaches that the connection is performed in a communication mode for device operated by said operation means, and the connection is performed in a low power consumption mode for the other devices, wherein the low power consumption mode is one of a park mode, a hold mode and a sniff mode (see column 1 and line 61-column 2 and line 8).

Per claim 6, Phillips further teaches a pointing device see column 1 and lines 20-25).

Per claim 21, Phillips discloses an input apparatus comprising: connection means for performing radio connection to a plurality of devices (see column 3 and lines 19-32), operation means for operating one of the plurality of devices subjected to radio connection, wherein said connection means performs radio connection to the device operated by said operation means and to other devices in different modes (see column 6 and lines 11-26). Phillips doesn't teach that said display means displays the list of the plurality of connected devices according to radio communication in different modes for the device capable of being operated by said operation means and other devices unable to be operated by said operation means. Yoshinaga teaches that display means displays the list of the plurality of connected devices according to radio communication in different modes for the device capable of being operated by said operation means and other devices unable to be operated by said operation means (see figure 1 and column 3 16-38, column 5 and lines 46-59). It would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the teaching of Yoshinaga with Phillips' device such that it is convenience for a user to observe and select one wireless connection mode among of all the available ones.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
